

Masthead Logo

The Iowa Review

---

Volume 42
Issue 2 Fall 2012

---

Article 43

Fall 2012

Pavane

Desirée Alvarez

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Alvarez, Desirée. "Pavane." The Iowa Review 42.2 (2012): 152 Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.7187>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

PAVANE

To tell the whole truth of the dream of the sword, homemade and no need of a shield, cut from cardboard and laid across the spell of long hair. Help me, mother, to defend what is me

carved in the sound of large birds dying.

We move slowly into the music, toes lifted while the babble of the end flows beneath.

Now is the time for us to dip our tresses
in the sea and take away the oil.

Now to dance the dance of the real horse and the fake horse, of the farmer and the field, of the sticks and handkerchiefs,

of burying our general

and marching over his body,
when all will be as it once was before human hands.